Canyon Artist Cited For Art Contribution

By TROY MARTIN

Back at the school where he taught art in the middle 1930's A. W. Mack, teacher, traveler, painter and soldier of fortune, was honored Tuesday night.

Mack was presented a certificate at the Arts Festival banquet for "outstanding contribution in the field of art." The banquet opened the Ninth Annual Festival of Arts at West Texas State College.

A Scotchman with a burr to his Texas accent, Mack was born in Edinburgh, the son of an engineer. For a time it seemed that Mack would follow in his father's footsteps.

He was apprenticed as an engineer but he was interested in art and began attending night school in Glasgow. When the guns of World War I boomed, Mack worked as an engineer in a Glasgow munitions factory.

Following the war he received degrees from the University of Edinburgh and then from the Art College. He also received a teaching certificate from the Moray House in Scotland.

Having saved his money, as would be expected of any good Scot, Mack was able to travel around England and the continent.

He visited Dublin, Amsterdam and Paris. Some of these travels were accomplished on scholarships. The young artist already had attracted attention to his work.

During World War I, Mack had become acquainted with an uncle who had migrated to America. The uncle, a Presbyterian minister, had served as a chaplain with the AEF and had visited with Mack's family during his sojourn in Scotland.

"I decided to pay my uncle a visit," Mack relates. He didn't write, wire or call. He just got on a ship and headed for New York.

In New York, without the faintest idea of where his relative might be on this big North American continent, Mack went to the Bible House for a bit of help in locating him. At last he traced him down in Arizona.

Again without sending a message ahead, Mack climbed on a train and headed West. "I

City-County Squabble To Joint Conference

Randall County commissioners court this week voted to ask for a joint meeting with Canyon city commissioners to discuss possible changes in the city-county rural fire contract.

Making the move was Commissioner Bill Butler. Vote in favor of the resolution was unanimous.

The city-county rural fire contract has been a bone of contention for several months. Former Commissioner C.Y. Johnson made a motion several months ago which would have unilaterally changed the contract.

The Johnson motion would have reduced by $100 a month the amount to be paid the city by the county for fighting rural fires.

Although the motion passed, it never was acted upon because the county attorney advised the court that to do so would amount to breach of contract with the city.

Under present provisions of the contract, the county pays the city $100 for each rural fire call made by the Canyon Fire Department.

The county has a similar contract with the cities of Amarillo and Happy. The county furnishes a fire truck to the city of Canyon and none to the cities of Amarillo and Happy.

Canyon Fire Department does the bulk of the county's rural fire fighting. In 1962, Canyon Fire Department answered 66 rural calls while Amarillo answered only 19.

Commissioner Butler said he felt that a talk with the city would be helpful.

One Files For City Commission

School board and city elections are upcoming in April and one candidate already has filed for a place on the city commission.

John Williams Tuesday filed for re-election to the commission from place 4. Williams is completing his second term in that office.

The term of Paul Lindsey from place 5 also expires this year.

City election will be held at city hall Tuesday, April 2. Deadline for filing for city commission is March 2. Candidates should file at city hall.

School board terms of Bob Wear, president, and Mrs. Clay Cooper, secretary, expire this year. March 7 is the deadline for filing for school board.

School board election will be held April 6. Candidates should contact Mrs. Cooper. She will supply all necessary forms.

Canyon Chamber Kicks Off Membership Drive Eying Bigger Budget

Commissioners Study Current Year Budget

Officials Say Program Calls For $15,000

Canyon city commission reviewed the new budget for the coming fiscal year at their regular Monday meeting.

City manager Bill York presented to the court an outline of his proposed budget for the new year.

He explained each item and department giving the commissioners reasons for each change and proposed amount.

Total proposed expenditures amounted to $385,218, but York said this may vary before the budget is finally approved. He said the commission will probably take action on the budget at the next regular meeting, Feb. 25.

A date for a public hearing on the city budget will be set sometime in March, York said.

In other action, the court opened sealed bids from three Canyon automobile dealers for the purchase of a new 1963 model police car by the city.

Imperial Chevrolet won the low bid for the car with a trade-in price of $929. The city will trade in its 1962 Chevrolet.

Other bidders were Canyon Motor Company with a bid of $1481 and Bruce Blackaby Ford Company with a bid of $1268.

The city commissioners interviewed Jess Rhodes as a possible auditor for the city's 1962-63 books, asking him how much he thought the audit would cost and when he could finish it.

Rhodes told the commission that he would have to investigate how long the audit has taken in the past before he could offer a price and a deadline.

Science Fair Set Feb. 28

Science Fair for Canyon public school students will be held Thursday, February 28, in conjunction with the monthly P-TA meeting.

Displays will be open that evening from 8:00 to 9:30. The P-TA meeting begins at 7:30 in the junior high school auditorium.

Following the business meeting and other entertainment, those present will then converge in the south gymnasium of the junior high school for the science fair.

During the meeting in the auditorium, Mrs. K.E. Hines will preside. Devotional will be given by Rev. Lars Hamer and Mrs. Herman Demus will present a music student.

Special music by a group of fathers will be arranged by Raymond Raillard.

Mrs. A.C. Clark is in charge of the science exhibitions.

This is a change of date for the fair, which was originally scheduled in the P-TA yearbook for Tuesday, February 26.

Moisture Some Help To Wheat

Moisture during the past week-end was a step in the right direction for the wheat farmers.

Amounts over Randall generally fell below one-half inch of moisture. At the beginning of the spell, rain fell gently and soaked into the dry fields as it fell. The snow melted quickly at first but at the end of the day on Sunday high winds and colder temperature caused drifting and freezing and the effectiveness of the moisture was greatly reduced.

Wheat farmers generally believe this scene of ice and snow. Temperatures large for "services rendered."

He said the sewer serving the Leonard residence was adequate. He said it was an 8-inch pipe. He also said that the city had never received any complaints from previous owners of that residence.

The commission denied the request.

The court also considered the request by Larry McCrady of Amarillo to tap the city water main east of Canyon in the Crow Addition for a residence he is building. The commission approved the request.

The commission also agreed to meet with the Randall County commissioners Wednesday night in city hall concerning the present city-county fire contract.

General Who Lived Here Dies In Paris

Friends here this week received word of the death in Paris, France, of a distinguished former resident of Canyon.

General James Younger, US Army retired, died Jan. 12 in Paris. Burial was in Washington, D.C.

General Younger was a member of pioneer Panhandle family. He was a nephew of W.H. Younger, the first pastor of Canyon First Baptist Church. He also was a nephew of Mrs. L. G. Conner, a pioneer of this area.

A cousin, W.H. "Sport" Younger was for many years superintendent of schools at Tulia. A building of the Tulia School System is named Younger School.

General Younger was one of five children. His mother died when the children were very small. The family was reared by the father, James Younger, Sr.

The father operated a small grocery store at the present site of Canyon Cleaners.

Dr. J. A. Hill remembers the children as an outstanding group of youngsters. There were three boys and two girls.

The general's elder brother was distinguished in the field of aeronautics. He was head of the Aeronautical Engineering Department at the University of Maryland at the time of his death about three years ago.

General Younger started to school at West Texas State in 1913 but did not go straight through school. In school he was a member of the Cousins Literary Society and the college debating team.

In the spring of 1917 he left school to volunteer for the armed forces as the US entered the war against Germany. He was on the college war service honor roll in 1918.

He stayed with the Army and rose to the rank of general. He was stationed for many years in St. Louis and little is known here about the ensuing years. He married a French girl and the couple settled in Paris after his retirement.

The couple visited here about two years ago. Friends in Canyon say the couple have three children, all living in this country.

Membership drive for Canyon Chamber of Commerce is under way.

Chamber officials say approximately $15,000 is needed this year to carry out Chamber of Commerce projects for the current year.

Head of the finance committee and director of the membership campaign is W. A. "Bill" Wilson. The drive got under way in the downtown and college area Tuesday.

It was billed as a "one-day drive" but members of the committee were expected to continue work throughout the week.

Wilson said emphasis will be put on individual memberships at a later date.

Plans already are being laid for this year's Chamber work, according to Roland Black, executive director.

The Industrial Committee, headed by Joe Cidden, is working on several projects designed to bring industry to the Canyon area. Some specific industries already have been contacted and Cidden this week expressed optimism for the success of his committee.

Final spring semester day student enrollment last year was 2373, and final evening only enrollment was 770. About 10 per cent increase has been noted for night registration.

Last possible day for enrollment will be Saturday.

Bufs Play Aggies At Las Cruces Saturday

BY MIKE MOON

After equalling their longest losing streak of the season, the West Texas State basketball team travels to Las Cruces, Saturday night for the second game of the season against the New Mexico State Aggies.

The Buffaloes take on the near-impossible task of trying to beat the Aggies on their home court. The nationally-fourth-ranked Arizona State cagers barely beat the not-so-powerful Aggies at the University Park gymnasium earlier in the season by the mere margin of two points.

Earlier in the season, the Buffaloes defeated the New Mexico State five 75-64 at the WT Field House. That was during the Buffaloes five game win string that accounted for all but one of WT's seasonal wins. Included in that string just preceding the NMS win was a morale-boosting victory over the Western Athletic Conference contenders University of New Mexico.

The latest loss for the beleaguered Buffaloes came at the hands of the lowly Eastern New Mexico Greyhounds. ENMU stretched WT's latest losing skein to seven games with only three remaining for the season under the coaching of Metz LaFollette who recently tendered his resignation effective the end of the semester.

The West Texas-Eastern New Mexico series was in its 13th game last Tuesday night at Clovis and it marked the only time in all 13 games that the Greyhounds could manage a win. ENMU edged past the Buffs 79-74. Earlier in the week, the Oklahoma City Chiefs blasted the Buffs 104-59 at Oklahoma City. OCU's largest style victory was the worst loss of the season for the Buffs, so far.

West Texas took an earlier 84-49 win over the Greyhounds at Canyon as ENMU failed to show the home crowd much. However, the Greyhounds chalked up their ninth straight home court win in posting a winning 10-9 season thus far. Both teams hit almost exactly 50 per cent of their shots in the slowly-played game. The Buffs outshot the ENMU team from the free throw line percentage-wise in a closely-played game.

Tall Scottie Pierce was the big gun for the Buffs with 21 points before he fouled out. In contrast, the smallest player of the WT team, Sonny Blankenship, was second high with 16. Bobby Roland, playing the other half of West Texas' double post system, scored 12 points to round out the high scorers for the Buffs.

With less than half of the first half remaining, the Greyhounds jumped to a 27-20 advantage over the slow-starting WT five. However, an effective full court press by the Buffs eliminated the deficit and the score stood tied at the halftime intermission at 39-39.

During the second half, the score was tied four different times in a hard-fought contest in which West Texas held several small second half leads. Blankenship gave the Buffs their final lead of the game after connecting on a hook shot with 9:05 left to play in the game to give the Buffs a 62-59 margin.

Slowing down the game to their own style of "turtle-type" offense, ENMU erased the minor deficit and built up a comfortable 72-64 lead.

From this point on until the end of the game, West Texas outscored the Greyhounds 10-6 and fell short by five markers at the final buzzer. The loss dropped the over-all record for the Buffs to 6-15.

In the Saturday night clash, the tall Oklahoma City Chiefs used their overwhelming height advantage to administer the Buffs their worst defeat of the 20-game season. The fray also marked the first time a WT opponent had topped the 100-point mark this season.

Tremendous rebounding by the Chiefs was all the difference as OCU grabbed 74 rebounds while the Buffaloes managed a mere 34. Coach Abe Lemon's sky-scraping crew averaged a shade over 6-7 for their starting five. Big man

Rev. Strauss Atkinson gives the welcoming speech at a Blue and Gold Banquet for Cub Scout Pack 97. Rev. Atkinson is pastor of First Baptist Church, the sponsoring institution.

Cub Scout Banquets Being Held

Cub Scouting is for families of boys 8, 9 and 10 years old. This is what Monty Stokes, Scout executive from Amarillo, told those who attended a Blue and Gold Banquet for Pack 97 last week at Canyon High School Cafeteria.

This was the first of three banquets scheduled for Canyon Cub Scout packs. The second, that of Pack 131, was held Monday night in the Elementary School Cafeteria.

Pack 31 will hold its Blue and Gold Banquet at 7:00 o'clock Friday night in the First Presbyterian Church.

Sportsmen Agree On Club Rules

The Randall County Sportsmen Club was one step closer to final organization Wednesday night of last week when the organization committee for the proposed club agreed on a suggested set of by-laws and a constitution for the club.

The committee also set the date for the next public meeting at February 28, the fourth Thursday of each month.

Sportsmen attending that meeting will be asked to ratify, or amend and ratify the suggested constitution and by-laws.

Nomination from the floor and election of club officers will take place at the following meeting, March 28.

The organization committee composed of Dr. Paige Carruth, Dr. R.C. Busted, Richard Pruet, Clarence Beckman, General Jerry Lee, L.J. Witkowski and Jim Thomas, chose Thomas as its chairman.

Meeting in commissioner's court room of Randall County Court House, the committee agreed the suggested name for the proposed club should be Randall County Sportsmen Club.

They agreed that the suggested purposes of the club should be to stimulate education in the field of wildlife and resource conservation; to promote fellowship among area sportsmen; to develop and assure good relations between area sportsmen and landowners, public and private agencies; to cooperate with public and private natural resource conservation and to promote outdoor safety and sportsmanship.

The committee set up a suggested minimum age limit of 12 years for membership in the club. They suggested that those members between the ages of 12 years and 15 years inclusive, be assigned a junior membership without voting privileges and with $1.00 per year dues.

Members 16 years and over would be senior members with voting privileges in the club and dues at $3.00 per year.

The committee agreed that both men and women, boys and girls should be eligible for membership in the club and that anyone in the area, including adjacent counties, could belong if they were interested.

By-laws proposed by the committee stated that new officers should take office on the September 1, the same date that dues would fall due.

Other by-laws agreed upon include that club business should be conducted at meetings for which the membership had been given due notice. They agreed that a majority of the members present at a meeting should carry the vote on club business.

Stanley McDonough, Texas Game and Fish Commission officer, was present at the invitation of the committee, as an advisor.

The group left the meeting expressing high hopes for the success of the proposed sportsmen's organization.

Going somewhere? Or been? The Canyon News wants to know about it--and so do its readers.

The tourist development committee is working to arrange Indian ceremonies to be staged in the amphitheater at Palo Duro State Park. Black said clearance with the Texas Panhandle Heritage Foundation board of directors will be necessary to secure the use of the amphitheater.

Plans also are in the mill for an area square dance jam-boree this summer. There is prospect for an Easter sunrise service at the amphitheater.

Black emphasized that permission must be obtained from the foundation board to obtain use of the amphitheater which recently was completed.

The Retail Merchants Committee will meet at noon today (Thursday) to make plans for its activity this year.

When peace came, Mack wanted to return to America but found that he had to wait a year. His wife is Dr. Mattie Mack, who teaches English at WT. They were married shortly after his return.

Mack said he doesn't remember the first painting he ever sold. He said some of his work has brought as much as $1,000.

"He is one of the Southwest's finest contemporary artists," said Dr. Emilio Caballero, head of the WT Art Department.

"You go into painting because you want to paint," declared Mack. "You don't paint for money."

Mack says he likes to paint "classic kind of things" and likes to do human figures. He also does sculpturing in clay. Examples of Mack's work will be on display Sunday afternoon from 2 o'clock until 5 in a one-man show in the lounge of the Fine Arts Building at West Texas State College.

Always would rather go than to write," he explained. Mack arrived in Arizona to find his uncle feverishly packing for a trip to South Africa in two days. The uncle was going to the dark continent to take over pastorate of a church built by some other Scots who had struck it rich in mining.

"We visited a couple of days and he went to South Africa," Mack relates. "I've never seen nor heard from him since."

Mack stayed in Arizona. Mack taught art at West Texas State in the 1930's. He wound up in San Antonio with an art studio and then World War II broke out.

Mack returned to the Old Island and served in civil defense throughout the war. He was in London during the blitz. "It was a lively time," he recalls.

Geology Club Plans Big Bend Field Trip

West Texas State College Geology Club will discuss the coming Big Bend Geology Field Trip the club is sponsoring in April at their Wednesday night meeting, February 20 in the lecture room of the WT geology department.

The coming field trip, which is sanctioned and approved by the WT geology department, will feature a guided camping tour of most of the significant geological formations of the Big Bend country, including the Big Bend National Park.

Several faculty members as well as numerous students have expressed their intentions of making the trip.

The group will start from the geology department office, April 10 and will travel by individual automobiles to the Big Bend country. They plan to return the following Monday, April 15.

Moisture...

lieve the moisture, though light, was a big help to the crop. Subsoil moisture still remains good at six inch depth below on most of the fields and the wheat seems to be rooted well.

Top growth is very short but growers believe this may be even a good indication that the wheat will have a good recovery when good growing conditions return.

This time last year greenbugs were beginning to make the wheat crop look bad. This year, so far, a few greenbugs have been spotted in fields over the county but the build-up has not been serious.

Cattle seemed to suffer in past storm. Even though the temperature did not fall so low as it did during the storms in January, it seemed that they were wet thoroughly and the cold weather following the moisture seemed to cause them to suffer. Cattlemen have been busy supplying hay and protein to cattle the past few days.

Winter killing of some of the small grain crops cannot yet be determined though some of the oats and barley could well be thinned by the cold dry weather of January.

Wheat is expected to be all right. There might have been some thinning of stands on irrigated wheat that was planted on lister beds where exposure to the cold on top or side of the beds was greatest.

With favorable growing temperature and moisture during the spring months wheat growers still believe Randall County could come out with a good wheat crop.

Arts Enrich Human Life Says Festival Speaker

Enriching human existence are the common goals of the fine arts and liberal arts.

This is the gist of a speech by Dr. Frank C. Hughes, dean of the school of fine arts, at the banquet Tuesday night opening the ninth annual Festival of Arts at West Texas State College.

He said fine arts can occupy a higher rung in our social structure. They deal with unseen and unheard side of the individual that is eternal.

He traced fine arts from the Greeks to the present time pointing out that it was in the Nineteenth Century that fine arts took hold in the US as a result of an influx of European talent.

He pointed out that we have people now who feel we could get along without the fine arts but noted that in war-torn countries of Europe the fine arts were among the first things revived.

He said fine arts are becoming a part of the core of what students must study. He maintains that it takes brain power to cope with fine arts just as it does in other fields.

"A liberal education must include fine arts," he declared.

He said a liberal education is not so much what is studied but how it is studied. He declared that fine arts and humanities are inseparable.

"The task of all of us immediately concerned with education

Edgar Payne Paintings On Display At Museum

BY JIM THOMAS

"Edgar A. Payne has keyed his palette to the Far West and the great Southwest..."

"His...canvases will remain as historical records...The encroachments of commerce will destroy the primitive beauty of many of the enchanted spots of the Southland...then the generations that come after will turn to these canvases as records of a departed epoch."

The above are some of the comments made by prominent national fine art critics concerning the bold and colorful paintings of Edgar A. Payne.

A collection of Payne's work is now on display at the Panhandle Plains Museum in Canyon.

Most notable in the Payne paintings is the brusque, decisive style he used. With single and heavy strokes, Payne laid down individual areas of color, laid one on another and overlapping to give his work an interestingly strong effect.

Viewed from a close up, the heavy individual strokes are easily apparent, but as the viewer backs away from the canvas, the individual strokes and dabs of color blend into a skillful composition with very evident strength and brightness.

Four of the 29 Payne paintings are specially outstanding. Some of these are COLESCAN-

YON and CANYON DE CHELLEY, scenes of the rugged Southwest at its best.

The canyon scenes are more than well done duplicates of the southwestern mountain view. They have warmth.

Art critics, while trying to describe what it is about Payne's canvases that give them their individuality and appeal, have said they produce "...the solemn and poetic note..." of the mighty distances of the Southwest, the nostalgia of its atmosphere and the eloquence of its silence.

This description perhaps could be appreciated by those fortunate enough to have spent time in the vast and undeveloped portions of the Southwest.

The exhibit is on the west wall of the second floor in the museum.

RANDALL COUNTY FARM BUREAU

Your Randall County Farm Bureau Board of Directors met Thursday, Feb. 7, at their regular monthly meeting. All the annual Community Meetings have been held in the County with the exception of Jowell which will be held on February 14th at 7:30 p.m. A new director from the Umbarger Community, Raymond Batenhorst, was present as a visitor. He will be installed at the Annual Meeting.

Two State Meetings had been held since the last Board Meeting. Director Roger Dugan attended the State Legislative Meeting in Austin, and a good report was received by him on this meeting. President R.

B. Gist, Jr., Directors Tony Hollenstein, Harley Burrus, Lewis Tuck, and Agency Manager Fred Olson attended a Membership Meeting in Lubbock on February 4th. This was one of three meetings held by the State Office in three cities in Texas.

The Area State Membership Meeting was attended by Texas Farm Bureau President C. H. DeVaney, Millard Shivers, and Bill Hoover of the State Office; Warren Newberry, Area Field Director of the Southern Region; American Farm Bureau; State District Directors; Texas Farm Bureau Field Area Supervisors; and about 300 County Bureau leaders of the South Plains and Panhandle Area.

The theme of the meeting was the launching of "Rocket 87--the Texas Farm Bureau Membership Goal of 87,000 members for 1963. The present membership reached in 1962 was 84,842. It was further reported that with one-fourth of the membership year past there has already been an increase of 1500 members over 1962. Two other significant facts pointed out in the meeting were that Texas has the largest Farm Bureau membership in the South and that the South now has 40% of the total membership in American Farm Bureau.

A new project has been undertaken by Randall County Farm Bureau. Mr. William W. "Bill" King of the Texas Employment Commission met with the Board of Directors Thursday evening. A "Farm Labor Day" service for this area was inaugurated, and Mr. Paul H. Williams, TEC Farm Placement Interviewer, will be at the Farm Bureau Office each Monday between 1:00 p.m. until 4:00 p.m.

It is to be noted that even though this project is being sponsored in Canyon by Randall County Farm Bureau, it is available to all people in the area. It is believed this will facilitate the hiring of agricultural workers by all people in the area. This will be a very flexible program, and The Texas Employment Service will do everything within their range to help secure for farm operators the type of employees they need. This program will be available to all providing we use the service.

Two Scouts Honored At Church

The God and Country Award was presented to Mike Johnson and Andy Moreland at the morning worship service at the First Christian Church last Sunday morning.

Members of Troop 66 sponsored by the First Christian Church, these two scouts have studied for thirteen months under Rev. Harter to meet the requirements for receiving this award. As part of their award program Mike and Andy served as Junior Deacons Sunday morning.

Troop 66 and Post 66 were special guests of the church for the morning worship service, and the award was presented as part of the annual observance of Scout Sunday.

Mrs. Jimmy Bonds, Tulsa, visited with her parents Mr. and Mrs. T. V. Slack last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Foster, 1007 5th Avenue, had as their visitors Friday, Mr. and Mrs. Don Reeves and daughter, Kathleen from Hereford. Mrs. Reeves is a niece of the Foster's.

Grass Fire Sweeps Wide Front

Canyon firemen, with the aid of the Happy fire department, fought the biggest grass fire of the year Friday, south of Canyon.

Canyon Fire Captain Joe Rice said the big fire stretched along the Santa Fe right-of-way all the way from Canyon to a mile north of Happy, a distance of about 16 miles.

The fire quickly spread in front of a stiff east wind, he said, burning weeds and pasture grass all the way along the right-of-way.

Rice said the railroad usually burns off the grass along its right-of-way to prevent such fires but this year failed to do so.

The fast spreading fire at one point nearly engulfed the Charles Green farm house, 5 miles southwest of Canyon. Firemen got to the house minutes before the fire and managed to save the building, Rice said.

Extensive damage to fences and winter pasturage was reported as a result of the two hour blaze.

Rice said there were at least ten separate fires going at the same time along the right-of-way. He said the Canyon fire department had 22 men working on the fire. "I don't know how many farmers and volunteers we had helping us put the fire out," he said.

Rice said the Canyon and Happy fire departments experienced "...excellent cooperation with this big grass fire. By working together, the two fire departments put the fire out in just a few hours," he said.

He cautioned Randall County citizens "...to be extremely careful when burning trash or grass in this dry weather."

WT Art Teacher To Hold Exhibit

Bob "Robert" Hobbs, art teacher at West Texas State College, will have an art exhibit Sunday in Amarillo at the Custom Gallery, 1412 Washington.

The opening will be from 2 until 5 p.m. Paintings of both oil and caseins will be on exhibit for two weeks.

Flute Clinic Here Feb. 23

A clinic on the fundamentals and techniques of flute playing, which will be open to area high school hand directors and students, has been scheduled at West Texas State College Feb. 23.

Sponsoring the clinic, which will feature Frederick Wilkins, noted flutist and clinician for Artley, Inc., is the 130-piece Symphonic Band of West Texas State.

A "twilight" concert, at 4:30 p.m. by the band, conducted by Dr. Ted J. Crager, and featuring Wilkins as soloist, will climax the afternoon sessions. The program, in the Fine Arts Building auditorium, will be open to the public.

The clinic will open at 1 p.m. in the band room in the Fine Arts Building. Wilkins will talk on, and demonstrate, "Fundamentals of Flute Playing." A session on "Advanced Flute Techniques" is scheduled at 2:30, and a question and answer session is slated at 3:30.

After early study with Anthony Linden, solo flutist of the San Francisco Symphony and with Meredith Willson, Wilkins won the first of five Juilliard Fellowships. He studied five years with Georges Barrere at Juilliard.

For years solo flutist with the Radio City Music Hall orchestra in New York, Wilkins frequently appeared with the New York City Opera and New York City Ballet. During World War II, Wilkins served in the Navy, but also made recital appearances with the Honolulu Symphony. After the war, he joined the Firestone orchestra.

Judging Team Does Well At El Paso Show

Canyon High School vocational agriculture department's livestock judging team placed second in a field of 52 teams at the El Paso Livestock Show last week.

George Cox was high in swine judging and Robert Tuck was second in the entire show.

Boys making the trip were George Cox, Ronnie Hawthorn, Doyle Welch, Larry Robinson, and Robert Tuck. Adults accompanying them were Leon Bagwell, vocational agriculture instructor, and Wesley Cox and Charlie Robinson.

Bagwell said the boys showed several swine and did very well but did not place any in the top three places.

Larry Robinson showed third and fourth place Angus heifers in the breeding stock show and an eleventh place black Angus steer.

Rev. Marcus L. Adair of Faith Chapel is currently presenting a series of Bible lessons.

The lessons are given every Wednesday evening at 7:30 p.m. with the public invited to attend.

Bible charts, lesson leaflets and other study helps make the series of interest to Bible readers. Special music and songs open each meeting.

County Agent's Column

Wheat farmers liked the moisture from the snow and rain of last week-end. It is true the amount was not great but after so long a time even a little bit helps. Reports from the Jowell Community and the Fairview-Sunnyhill Community producers say that subsoil moisture on fallowed wheat is still good. Wheat was recovering from the dormant condition brought on by January freezes. Moisture is still needed.

Heavy feeding of cattle has been going on for about one month now. Many of the steers and stocker heifers brought into Randall County to use the winter growth of wheat have now moved out. The breeding herds are being maintained on dry cured grasses and bundles with protein supplements. The roughage supply was generally adequate and no unusual shortages have shown up thus far. Calving is progressing normally with many young calves now on the ground.

Our Four-H Club members are now beginning to prepare for the annual rounds of judging and demonstration teams. When the district eliminations are held in Canyon in late April for the Panhandle area we expect to have many boys and girls from Randall County participating. All clubs will be given a chance to have their best talent trained for these contests.

After the Livestock show at El Paso closed last week, the end of the long string of livestock shows for Randall County boys and girls was over for this time. Several of our members did well. Our members participated in some of the large shows such as Amarillo, Fort Worth, and El Paso. Some of our members showed dairy heifers, swine, sheep, steers and beef heifers. The results prove that we have some of the top quality boys and girls and some of the best types of livestock produced in Randall County.

Canyon Pioneer Recalls Early-Day Plains Fires

BY JIM THOMAS

With all the grass fires in Randall County this year, several people wondered what grass fires were like in the old days before the Plains were broken up into farms and roads and before there were organized fire departments in the county.

Joe Black of 606 14th Street in Canyon, offered a description of a grass fire in the old days of the Panhandle. Black came to Randall County in 1890 where he grew up on his father's 15 section cattle ranch south of what is now Canyon. He is now 73 years old.

Black said he especially remembers a large prairie grass fire that came out of the west from New Mexico in 1904.

He said he remembers the sight of that fire as a boy growing up on the grassy plains of the Panhandle.

"The flames from that fire came in from the west and jumped South Creek, burning everything in its path until it reached North Creek where the ranchers managed to head it off," Black said.

"The people fought those flames with wet tow sacks and brooms. They would sometimes kill a cow and use the green hide, strung with lariets between two horses, to drag behind and put the fire out. That was one of the good things you could use to fight a grass fire with," he said.

"Those fires would burn up cattle sometimes. They couldn't get out of the way in time," Black said.

"We often plowed a 20 yard strip on the west side of our ranch. We would plow a couple of furrows out from the fence away and burn the grass in-between for a fire guard. Fires often came out of the west in those days," he said.

"The real fast fires would jump the fire guards but would slow them up some so they could be handled a little better," he said.

"The ranchers would often backfire a strip and try to head the big one off," he said.

Black said that when one of the big fires would start all the ranchers and the few towns-people would all go out to "help get it out."

Black said that in the late 1890's, about 1896, the T-Anchor drift fence was down around Tulla. "The drift fence stopped cattle from drifting in the snow storms," he said. We asked him if the fence ever caused cattle to bunch up and get trapped by the approaching grass fires, but he said he couldn't remember if it did.

He said the antelope would feed with the cattle in the winter time, especially in time of bad snows.

Black referred especially to one winter in 1903 or 1904 when the snow got to be 2 or three feet deep and stayed on the ground for six weeks. He said the snow killed off most of the antelope in this country. "The snow stayed on the ground so long it caused the antelope to starve to death," he said.

Speaking of cattle, Black said "I've seen them come in from the south over the Montana Trail. They were strung out as far as you could see by the thousand head."

Canyon Fire Department Busy As Fires Hit Area

Canyon fire department is at it again. Answering grass fire calls that is.

There were 7 grass fires in Randall County in 6 days as of February 11, according to Joe Rice, city fire captain.

Of the 7 grass fires since Wednesday of last week, two were of major importance, according to Rice.

The first, in Pioneer Estates east of Canyon, was put out in short order by the Canyon fire department, but due to the proximity of many new and valuable homes that were adjacent to the burning grass fields, the damage could have been much higher. As it was, the damage was limited to burned pasture and fence posts surrounding the fields.

The second fire, the next day, consumed a considerable portion of Randall County winter pasture south of Canyon.

The fire or fires (There were ten separate grass fires going at the same time, according to fire department officials), engulfed most of the grasslands bordering the Santa Fe right-of-way all the way from south of Canyon to a mile north of Happy.

Other fires in the county include a destroyed residence in the Palisades, 15 miles northwest of Canyon.

Rice said the Amarillo city fire department called the Can-

Joe Black, one of the last remaining Panhandle pioneers, tells of his boyhood on the Texas Panhandle Plains when the grass was tall and undivided by roads and farms. Black said prairie grass fires in those days were "... an awful thing." (Photo by Jim Thomas)

Youth Hurt In Accident

Lea Oscar Levy, 22, received a sprained wrist Friday of last week when his motorcycle hit a patch of gravel and flipped in Palo Duro Canyon State Park. Levy, a student at Amarillo College, had been using the motorcycle in order to see part of the canyon, according to Bob Rivers, investigating highway patrolman.

Levy was taken to St. Anthony's Hospital in Amarillo for treatment.

Damage to the motorcycle was listed at $40.

FROM THE CANYON RIM

Petitions are being circulated for the calling of an airport election. We hope to see a Randall County Airport built somewhere west of the expressway between here and Amarillo.

We hope those promoting the project will shoot high enough to leave the way open for expanding the facility when the need arises--as we feel it will arise.

From what we can hear from Amarillo, the air lines are none too happy with their situation at the present municipal facility, which they share with the military.

The military is none too happy with the situation either, and as we understand it, the commercial air lines could find themselves without a roosting place at Amarillo almost overnight.

We can foresee the time when all the major air lines would be using the Randall County facility which we believe would be self-supporting almost from the start.

There is considerable interest in small planes in the area and there is almost certain to be more when such facilities are available.

The air now is the highway of business. Executive of even small firms now find it more economical to fly, from a standpoint of time and expense on the road, than to drive.

The Wall Street Journal just last week pointed out that good facilities for private flying swiftly is becoming a prerequisite for locating of industry.

Canyon and Randall County has in prospect a small facility which would be greatly encouraged to locate here if a good airfield were available. Such a facility might attract many others.

As to financing the airport, we would like to see it done with local funds if the field is not to have military potential. If it is designed to have such a potential, and we think it should be, then use of federal funds would be justified.

During the Cuban crisis, Clark Jarnagin predicted that within a few months the American people would learn what price we paid for getting the Russian missiles out of Cuba and making the administration look good at election time.

Senator Kenneth Keating and Senator Hugh Scott now are of the opinion that such a deal

Hilltop Views

Last week as I wrote about the purported Keating-Thurmond revelations on the offensive arms build-up in Cuba I wondered if the argument might not be concluded and essential facts well-known before my article could reach the public.

This week I think that happy eventuality is less likely than a week ago. Although Mr. McCone, Director of the Central Intelligence Agency, has repeated his denial, Mr. McNamara, Secretary of Defense, has testified with rather positive assurance that there is no such arms build-up and President Kennedy has addressed the nation on T.V. to the same effect (though admitting that all things are possible.) there seems to linger considerable apprehension in the minds of many people, including influential Congressmen.

Such widely-read publications as The Dallas News, The U.S. News and World Report, and many others of like standing think all the above official denials are anything but convincing. The Dallas News points out editorially that these same top authorities were misled last fall before the Bay of Pigs debacle and could easily be mistaken again. When we remember Khrushchev's facility for lying and deception it is not difficult to see the Dallas paper's point. On the other hand, when one remembers the unhappy episode at the President's breakfast last year when Ted Dealey, top official of the Dallas News and a guest of the President, all but insulted his host, and that ever since that occasion that Texas metropolitan daily has scarcely printed a kind word about the Administration, one is disposed to take its counsel with a grain of salt. The News has further compromised its position on national affairs by effectively helping to turn Dallas County over to the Republicans in a persistent and almost bitter crusade against the Democrats for building an over-centralized national government; and, it has repeatedly urged the people to quit running to Washington for hand-outs.

Now the worm has turned. Dallas wants to become a little national capital and is not getting too much encouragement from Washington: the proposal to consolidate Love Field with Amon Carter of Ft. Worth throws The News into conposition fits. The News' inordinate desire to canalize the Trinity River with vast federal funds, the urgent need for federal money for clearing

CANYON BUSINESS REVIEW and BUYER'S GUIDE

With 16 years of proven service in the automotive business, J. T. Gillham has boosted Randall Motors to the top of the field in Canyon.

Gillham opened the garage at 504 23rd Street in 1946 after a tour of duty with the Army. At that time he was operating in a three-car Quonset hut. His steady automotive expansion demanded more room. Presently he and his two full-time mechanics have space to work on ten vehicles. Inside the building are three lifts, which made for speeded up maintenance.

For 11 years Gillham has handled DeSoto-Plymouth, but all makes and models of automobiles are worked on.

Randall Motors carries a complete line of parts, generators and starters and is an authorized inspection station.

Gillham, resident of 503 22nd Street, has had two mechanics with him since 1950. The established business is backed by the experience of Glen Dorris, 1704 1st Ave. and Merle Pitt, 2614 10th Ave.

Business hours range from 8 p.m. to 6 p.m. Monday through Friday and half of Saturday.

Letter To The Editor

Dear Editor:

I have just read an article from your paper dated Feb. 7 which interests me. It concerns the possibility of an airport for Randall County, which I presume would be located at Canyon.

It was my privilege to visit Canyon recently and as I was traveling by plane I found I had to use up a large amount of your fine Texas hospitality to get friends (Rev. Marcus Adair) to take me back and forth to Amarillo to an airport. Rev. Adair is a great booster for his city of Canyon but I could see he had no answer when I would ask why there was not an airport in a city where so many people come and go to visit college students. I sincerely hope the best for the development of an airport there. It would seem to me that it would be used a great deal and also keep Canyon on the list of cities with a forward look.

We hope to visit Canyon again someday...perhaps we'll get to land close to town.

Truly yours,
Robert G. Palmer

Dallas' disgraceful slum situation, which local capital has refused to do--these and other like public issues in Big D tend to discount any argument the News makes against the Kennedy Administration.

The U. S. News and World Report is a little more objective as a rule, and because of its wide coverage has tremendous influence yet, it is not to be denied that it usually sees eye to eye with the National Manufacturers Association, the U. S. Chamber of Commerce and most regional Chambers of Commerce, and with certain Republican leadership in Congress. While I have very high respect for the editor of that publication, David Lawrence, whom I have read rather consistently since he was a newspaper correspondent in Europe in World War I, he is plainly anti-Kennedy. I do not question his right to be, but that fact could bias him on the Cuban situation.

In the meantime Senators Keating, (R), and Thurmond, (D), have re-asserted themselves, and have been supported by several Congressmen and others in responsible positions in both public and private life. So the battle rages, to the detriment of our national morale and, no doubt, to our prestige abroad.

Senator Keating deserves praise for one thing. He has recently conveyed to the Administration the information upon which he based his public condemnation of its Cuban policies and has admitted that it is not conclusive. Pity he did not do this before he made his attack. Senator Thurmond still stands, as this is written, where he has stood for some time--almost bitterly critical of Cuban policy and refusing to divulge the source or the content of his information, except as to its derogatory nature.

It seems to this column that when a member of either house of our law-making body, or other high U. S. official, or for that matter, any private citizen obtains information of the kind that Senators Keating and Thurmond claim to have, considerations of loyalty to our country demand that such information be conveyed promptly to our top security officials, including the President of the United States. To stifle the whole nation with what now is admitted to be inconclusive evidence hardly becomes a common citizen, to say nothing of U. S. Senators, and is a distinct disservice to the country. Let's try to keep our minds open till the evidence is all in.

TEC Slates Farm Labor Day Here

The Amarillo office of the Texas Employment Commission will inaugurate a "Farm Labor Day" service in Canyon Monday, to serve farmers and ranchers and farm and ranch workers in Randall County and vicinity, according to a statement by J. D. Roberson, Manager of the Amarillo TEC office.

Present plans are to hold these Farm Labor Days on Monday of each week as long as the service is needed. Farm Labor Day will be conducted at the Farm Bureau office, located at 1710 Fifth Avenue in Canyon from 1:00 p.m. until 4:00 p.m.

Farm Labor Day is to provide farmers and ranchers needing workers and farm and ranch workers seeking employment a common meeting place and in turn minimize time and travel to both parties.

This service is open to all people in the area without charge.

Paul H. Williams, TEC Farm Placement Interviewer, will be in charge of the Farm Labor Day Program.

Former Canyon Resident Dies

Easton H. Allen, former Canyon resident, died recently in Walnut Creek, California, following his third heart attack.

Mr. Allen was reared in Canyon and graduated from West Texas State College in 1920. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Allen who was a former Dean at West Texas State for 25 years.

Following graduation from college, Mr. Allen, taught several years at Sul Ross State College and Las Vegas University. For the last fifteen years he and his wife have been employed with a chemical company in California. They were planning to retire next year.

Survivors include his wife, two daughters, and a brother, Harper Allen of Saratoga, California.

We earnestly hope that the rumors are just that--rumors and nothing more.

We heard Walter Heller on Meet The Press Sunday. It would have been amusing if Mr. Heller's whimsy did not have such bearing on the future economic welfare of this country.

Heller again proposed the same old saw we heard from Roosevelt--"Spend our way to prosperity."

Heller admitted, under questioning, that he has been wrong so far in assessment of growth in gross national products. Yet, the administration is gambling the economic well being of this nation on the predictions of this bespectacled economist who never managed a business or met a pay roll.

He excused the administration's record-breaking deficit budget by likening the government to the Ford Motor Company which he said made great wealth by going into debt.

Perhaps Heller didn't realize or care to mention the difference between the U.S. government and the Ford Motor Company. The Ford Motor Company produces a product while the U.S. government does not or should not.

The people who hold the destiny of Ford Motor Company are hard-headed businessmen, experienced in their field. People like Heller are making economic decisions for the U.S. government on textbook theory without benefit of successful experience upon which to base those decisions.

Dogs in Canyon had reason to rejoice Saturday morning, Ray Reynolds, city pound man, stopped by The News to call city hall to report that the pound wagon had broken down.

From. . .

They point to the fact that American Jupiter missiles are being pulled out of Italy and Turkey.

As to a "deal" in October, we won't say but there's little doubt about something being rotten in Cuba.

Since last October, Mr. Kennedy has exchanged thousands of words of correspondence with Chairman Khrushchev. Still the Russian build up in Cuba continues.

The President says there are no offensive weapons in Cuba at the present time. This is the same thing Mr. Kennedy said in September of last year, about three weeks before the Cuban crisis.

Here is a quote from the U.S. News & World Report:

"Rumors have it that not only is there constant surveillance of Castro's Cuba by the U.S. armed forces but also now under way is a 24-hour surveillance of Senator Kenneth Keating of New York--to try to determine his sources of information about what is going on on that island."

If you remember, Keating is the man who reported to the American people in August of last year--two months before the Cuban crisis--the presence of Russian missiles on that Caribbean island.

Keating says the situation in Cuba now is even more dangerous than it was last October.

We leave to your imagination the portent if a member of such an august body as the U.S. Senate actually is being subjected to secret police tactics.

Prairie Wildlife

According to an old, old saying in Texas, "If you don't like the weather, just wait a few minutes, it will change."

Lots of truth in that. An example is the recent change that hit the Panhandle over the week end.

Saturday we were out to Buffalo Lake Wildlife Refuge taking movies of the ducks and eagles and asking the many fishermen about their catches for the afternoon. (They caught plenty!)

Sunday afternoon it was snowing and Monday morning we were pretty cold.

But it won't last long, we think. Perhaps warmer weather is just around the corner. That means the fishing will pick up again.

Most of last week was like a breath of spring and by Saturday morning the fishermen couldn't keep themselves away from the lake.

They were there in force and to make things pleasant the fish were biting pretty well. Folks standing around the shoreline, especially around the dam, were pulling in the crappie one right after another.

Those with boats were having even better luck. Most of the folks we stopped to chat with in boats had at least 20 to 30 crappie on their strings and even several bass.

One old fellow from Amarillo came to the concessions area with no less than 17 channel cats on a string, according to Mannie Rubin, concessionaire at the lake.

He didn't get the name of the cat fisherman nor his picture, but he promises us that he will put a picture taking machine out there and will supply the names and catches of those we miss. You be looking for such.

At any rate, the folks had a whale of a good time. They were even out there Sunday morning when the temperature was on its way down and we were having some rain.

The rain later turned to snow and the fishermen gave up the ghost and headed for the fires of home.

We spent most of our time Saturday afternoon over the hill from the refuge with Lonnie Peters calling up coyote. Trying to call up coyote, that is.

We were there with a big Bolex movie camera and more than several hundred millimeters of telephoto lens on the front.

Lonnie Peters, supervisor for the Texas Game and Fish Laboratory in Canyon, stands atop one of the beaver lodges in Palo Duro Canyon.

The beavers have recently been making pests of themselves by cutting down valuable shade trees in the Palo Duro Club area.

All that shiny aluminum must have been too much for any self respecting coyote.

Peters did all the calling on that outing and he did a really convincing job of it. He sure did. But wily coyote just wouldn't buy that big movie camera. No sir.

We did get a nice picture of an immature golden eagle sitting in a tree. He kind of gave us the eye while we took his picture. As if to say he didn't really approve of our bad manners.

Lots of folks may not know it but this part of the country has its share of beavers.

The Little Prairie Dog Town Fork of the Red River (the creek that flows through the Palo Duro Canyon), is presently the home of we don't know how many beaver.

The upper portion of the creek, around the Palo Duro Club, is home to at least 6 of the big swimmers, much to the worry of the home owners there about.

Seems the beavers are cleaning out the trees around the lakes in the upper canyon.

One enterprising young beaver, and possibly his mate, found an overturned boat on the bank of one of the lakes in the canyon and decided it would make a fine roof for a winter lodge.

He promptly covered the boat with twigs and brush, in the usual beaver fashion, and carried enough other brush and small trees to the lodge for winter food. Chateau a la Lone Star. (See picture).

Time permitting, we plan to personally get with the local fishing and report first hand how it goes.

Do us a favor and keep those pictures and reports coming in on your fishing trips. You bet.

By Jamie Martin

AROUND THE TOWN (with kids)

Boy here is what I call a change over-night. A few days ago we were having real warm weather. Then all of a sudden presto, rain and snow. We got pretty close to having a blizzard, too.

Are any of you kids stymied on your science project? I am. I built a Morse Code tapper. I got the electro-magnet to work which astounded me. But it won't let go of the tapper like it's supposed to. I have it ready for the fair though (I hope).

Were you glad that you didn't have to go to school? I was. I did a lot I wouldn't have done otherwise. How about you? If you did anything that you think might be interesting to other people, call me at OL 5-4711. O.K.?

Tuesday night all the Juniors of the First Baptist Church had a circus party. The admission was 25¢ which covered the cost of everything. There were hot-dog stands, cold drink stands and candied apple stands that the 25¢ paid for. A magician entertained them. The children could wear costumes if they wanted to but they did not have to. There was no prize for the best, funniest etc. but the wearer was recognized.

Why does the Statue of Liberty stand in New York harbor?

WT Host For CLASP Campaign

A concerted drive for support from alumni of 13 Southwest area colleges will be launched in the Amarillo area Monday under auspices of the College Loyalty Alumni Support Program. The drive continues through March 1.

West Texas State College will be host for the cooperative effort, and other participating colleges are Abilene Christian, University of Arkansas, Hardin-Simmons, Baylor, Mary Hardin-Baylor, McMurry, Southern Methodist University, Texas A&M, Texas Christian University, Texas Tech, University of Texas, and Trinity University.

Alumni of the participating institutions will be contacted during the two-week period to secure assistance for higher education in Texas and the Southwest.

CLASP, the first cooperative alumni giving program in Texas, was begun in Abilene in 1961. It was repeated and expanded to include Austin in 1962.

Ex-students of participating institutions organize and solicit their fellow alumni during the period.

The drive will get underway at a meeting Monday at 8 p.m. in the Tascosa High School auditorium, when Eric Jonsson, president of the Texas Instrument Company and founder of the Great Southwest Research Center in Dallas, will speak.

Kiwanians Raise $100 In Campaign

Jim Martin, Canyon Kiwanis Club chairman for the recent Gonzales Warm Springs Telarally, said Monday that Canyon contributors turned in $100 as their share of the support for the physical rehabilitation center located in Gonzales, Texas.

Martin said the money raised as a result of the Telarally will stay in the Panhandle to pay the costs of physical rehabilitation of Panhandle citizens at the center.

More than $6000 was raised from the entire Panhandle for the center, he said.

Plains Museum Receives Kiowa, Comanche Items

BY JIM THOMAS
Panhandle Plains Museum is fast becoming the recipient of the nation's best and most complete collection of Comanche and Kiowa Indian artifacts, according to Jack Hughes, curator of paleontology.

The Cowboy Museum, as it is popularly known, recently received a collection of Comanche and Kiowa artifacts purchased for the museum by a New Mexico Rancher.

The rancher, on a recent tour through Oklahoma, visited such Indian communities as Fort Cobb, Lawton, Carnegie, Anadarko and Cashe. He visited various Indian families, buying articles of their clothing, tools, and religious implements for donation to the museum. Prominent among the articles is a full beaded Comanche cradle board used as a papoose carrier. It is more than a century old according to Hughes.

He said the colorful baby carrier is an unusually fine example of Indian bead work and probably belonged to a wealthy Indian family.

The entire papoose carrier, made of tanned buckskin, is covered with fine old cut glass beads which the Indians obtained in trade, Hughes said.

The carrier, in addition to its full bead covering is ornamented with strings of beads made from mesal beans interspersed with metal trade beads.

The beadwork pattern on the baby carrier has its pattern divided into two different designs, one for each side. Colors of the beadwork include navy blues, turquoise, Baltic blues, white and ochre reds.

The pine frame of the carrier is tall and pointed with the upper ends of the frame coming to a point.

Studded with brass headed nails and decorated with patterns painted in green and red, the frame of the carrier is constructed to provide support for the papoose when carried by the mother.

The design of the rig allows it to be removed from the mother's back when she might be in any one spot for any length of time. The mother could lean the carrier up against a convenient tree, rock or bush, confident that the baby would be safely off the ground and out of reach of insects and dirt.

Hughes said the construction of the papoose carrier with its ornate beadwork and painted wooden frame, must have been costly and slow work.

It was probably used by one of the wealthy Indian families of the early days as a mark of personal prestige—something like an extra large house or fancy car, he said.

Hughes said the Comanche name for the cradle board and papoose carrier arrangement was "O-Kow-Me".

Another item of the Comanche-Kiowa culture that is represented in the collection is a very old polished stone pipe used in everyday Indian life.

Distinguished from the larger and fancier ceremonial pipe of the Comanche, this pipe has a polished stone bowl with a short stone stem. A longer wooded stem is attached.

The stem comes complete with a wire pipe cleaner tucked into the stem hole and the whole rig fits neatly into a beaded and fringed buckskin pouch. It makes a complete trail smoking kit for the nomadic Comanche.

Hughes said the Comanches smoked a mixture of commercial tobacco, which they thinned with the leaves of the sumach tree.

Included in the collection is a beaded and fringed ceremonial buckskin pouch which the Indians used to carry the trance inducing cactus called peyote.

The Indians went through an involved ceremonial rite involving the chewing of small bits of the peyote cactus. A drug in the cactus caused a trance-like effect whereby hallucinations were experienced, ending in a stupor and state of exhaustion.

The pouch still contains a shrunken peyote "button", possibly once used in the religious rites.

Another ceremonial item included in the collection is a Comanche-Kiowa porcupine quill roach, used as a head dress. It is decorated down each side with black and white horse hair.

A full beaded ceremonial fan made of green and orange parrot feathers with a beaded handle and twisted buckskin fringes was in the collection.

Included in the Comanche-Kiowa artifacts is a turtle shell dipper with a split stock forming the handle.

Other items of interest in the donated collection from the Plains Comanche-Kiowa camps are Kiowa high topped boot moccasins for infant girls and regular moccasins for infant boys.

An item of interest is a "magical weaning device" used by early Kiowa mothers to wean their children.

The device is composed of several porcupine quills wrapped in soft buckskin and covered with a layer of fine glass bead work. It was hung from the infant's neck by buckskin strings and was supposed to "magically" induce the child away from breast feeding.

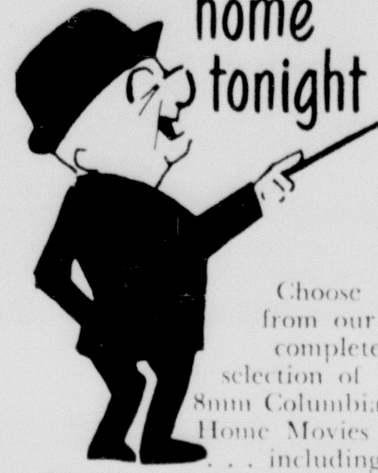

The final article in the collection is one of everyday use for the Plains Indians—a buckskin envelope or bag used by the migratory Indians to carry items of food and clothing.

Called a "Parfleche", it is decorated with designs painted on with vegetable dyes.

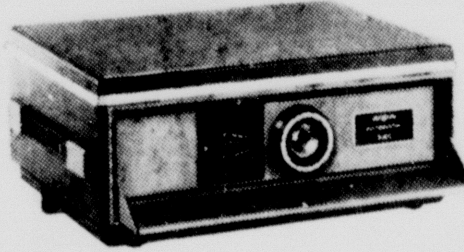

This full beaded papoose carrier, which once belonged to a wealthy Comanche family, is now in the Panhandle Plains Museum's collection of Comanche and Kiowa culture. The valuable item was once considered a status symbol among the early Comanches.

Over a hundred years ago a Valentine had quite a different value than the Valentines of today.

But if thy heart of kindred love should tell Let warm inspiring smiles thy thoughts express;

Then shall this scroll have done its bidding well,

And my freed tongue shall joyously confess

How first I strove to win thee faith to mine,

In the quaint fashion of St. Valentine!

The events of St. Valentine's life furnish no clue to the mystery of why this day is celebrated in the fashion that has been handed down. St. Valentine was a man most admired for his love and charity, that the custom of choosing Valentines upon his festival still survive.

It was an ancient custom to draw lots on the day. The names of an equal number of young men and women were put in a box, in separate partitions, out of which everyone present drew a name, called the Valentine, which was regarded as a good omen for their future marriage.

The old custom of drawing lots on this eventful day is obsolete, and has given away to the favorite practice of sending pictures, with poetic legends, to objects of love or ridicule.

From the poet Brand comes an old custom (long-forgotten--I hope): "Last Friday was Valentine's Day and the night before I got five hay-leaves, and pinned four to the corners of my pillow and fifth to the middle; and if I dreamt of my sweetheart, we should be married before the year was out. But, to make it more sure, I boiled an egg hard and took out the yolk, and filled it with salt; and when I went to bed, ate it shell and all, without speaking or drinking after it."

With the regard to the origin of this festival in the calendar, there are many conflicting opinions. St. Valentine, who suffered martyrdom in the reign of the Emperor Claudius, was eminently distinguished for his love and charity; and the custom of choosing Valentines, for special loving friends on day, is by some supposed to have thence originated. The following solution is, however, the more probable one. It was the practice in ancient Rome, during a great part of the month of February, to celebrate the Lupercalia, which were feasts in honor of Pan and Juno, whence the latter deity was named Februus or Februus. On this occasion, amidst a variety of ceremonies, the names of young women were put into a box, from which they were drawn out by the young men. Since the festival of the Lupercalia had commenced about the middle of February, they appear to have chosen Valentine's Day to celebrate the feast.

Don't forget that it is time to attend the Festival of the Fine Arts at WT. Try to attend some of the events this week or next. The art exhibit of A. W. Mack is most outstanding. It will be Sunday.
